

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Miss Ella M. Shaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curti Shaw of Smithfield and John Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Howard of Smithfield, were married yesterday in Pittsburgh at the residence of the Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. J. P. Dipper, the pastor, officiating. The bride wore a white tulle gown with a train and a blue ribbon. The groom wore a tuxedo. The ceremony was attended by a large number of guests. The bride and groom will reside at the home of the bride's parents in Smithfield.

The M. & S. Fancypack club was delightfully entertained Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. George Blair at her home in South Eighth street, West Side. All members and one guest, Mrs. Clarence Hooper, attended. Fancypack was the amusement followed by refreshments. Mrs. Wilson will entertain the club Wednesday afternoon, October 10, at her home in South street.

Miss Madeline Kulzer of Philadelphia and Charles W. Carroll, son of C. J. Carroll of the Tower Hill Connelleville Coke company, were married last Friday in Baltimore and are spending a few days at the home of the bride's father at Republic. Mr. and Mrs. Carroll will reside in Philadelphia, where the former is the president and general manager of the Twentieth Century Publishing company.

Mrs. J. W. Stuber, Mrs. H. M. Kerr and Miss Sarah Allen are attending a meeting of the Fourth District of the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary societies of the Redstone Presbytery which is being held today in the Redstone Presbyterian church at Mount Pleasant.

An every member meeting of the C. W. B. M. of the Christian church was held Tuesday in the church parlors. Mrs. J. M. Grey was leader and Mrs. Ross Lytle had charge of the musical program which consisted of solos by Mrs. John Enos, Melvin Sisson and Donald Sisson and a piano solo by Pauline Kooser. Mrs. C. C. Buckner and Mrs. J. M. Grey gave reports on the C. W. B. M. convention at Johnston and Mrs. G. W. Buckner told of the work in Great Britain. The next meeting will be held the first Thursday in November.

The Women's Division of the Council of National Defense of Fayette County will ask representatives of the Women's organizations of Connelleville to select subscribers for new Liberty bonds.

Mrs. J. Kirk Jenner entertained the Thursday afternoon Card Club yesterday afternoon at her home in West Fayette street. Three tables were utilized and following the games luncheon was served. Mrs. R. G. Backus of Cleveland, O., and Miss Cornelia Wales of Washington, Pa., were out-of-town guests.

The annual reception for the cradle roll of the First Presbyterian church will be held tomorrow afternoon in the church in connection with a reception to be held for Mrs. J. C. Whiteley's Sunday school class.

A special meeting of the King's Daughters of the Trinity Lutheran church will be held this evening at the home of Miss Mary Brickman in East Crawford avenue to complete plans for the annual Christmas bazaar.

An interesting program on "Egypt" was carried out at the regular monthly meeting of the Ladies Aid and Missionary society of the United Presbyterian church held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. P. R. Snyder, in Ninth street, Greenwood. Mrs. J. C. Stauffer was program leader. Mrs. J. W. Kennedy conducted an interesting map study. Instructive papers were read by Mrs. S. B. Donahue and Mrs. John Fuchner. Mrs. J. C. Stauffer gave a general talk on the subject. Devotional exercises were conducted by Mrs. J. H. Cypher. Mrs. W. H. Pearson and Mrs. N. H. Phillips were elected delegates, and Mrs. Jennie Foster and Miss Florence Patterson alternates, to the semi-annual missionary convention to be held on November 1, at Pittsburg. The meeting was well attended.

The O. N. T. club was entertained yesterday afternoon by Mrs. W. A. Furlong at her home in West Crawford avenue. It was the opening meeting and also the first anniversary of the club. Nine members and two guests, Mrs. Joseph Rittig and Mrs. Mary Tippman attended and spent the afternoon at fancywork. Red-white and blue appointments were charmingly carried out in the decorations and daintily arranged luncheon. The favors were small baskets of nuts tied with bows of red, white and blue ribbon. Mrs. Joseph Hill will entertain the club Thursday afternoon, October 18.

Four tables were called into play at the regular meeting of the South Side Euchre club held last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Hyatt in South Pittsburg street. Following the games Mrs. W. O. Schoonover was awarded the prize. Refreshments were served.

The F. O. M. class of the Methodist Protestant church will meet tonight in the church.

The regular meeting of the Y. W. C. A. of the United Brethren church which was to have been held tonight has been postponed until Monday evening. The meeting will be held at the home of Misses Leona and Nellie Showman in North Prospect street. The president, Miss Ella Herwick, requests all members to attend.

In honor of his 16th birthday, Carl Bittner was rendered a very enjoyable surprise party Wednesday evening at his home in Ninth street, Greenwood. A large number of his young friends attended and presented him with useful gifts in remembrance of the happy occasion. A delightful evening was spent at various amusements. Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Bittner.

The Missionary society of the Trinity Reformed church met last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Wagner in South Connelleville. The society was entertained jointly by Mrs. Wagner and Mrs. Fair. Dr. A. J. Hildner of Greensburg, a former pastor of the Trinity Reformed church, was a guest, and addressed the society on its growth and work. There was a large attendance of members and of friends of the society. Luncheon was served. The November meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. George W. Penrod in Ninth street, Greenwood.

WAR DEPARTMENT LETS CONTRACTS FOR 20,000 MILITARY AIRPLANES

About 5,000 of These Will be Built Abroad; Those Made Here to be All-American.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Contracts have been let by the War Department for the construction of 20,000 airplanes for use in the war against Germany. This is practically the whole number of airplanes for which provision was made in the $640,000,000 aviation bill. About 5,000 of these will be built abroad.

American aviators are today being trained in all the allied countries as well as in this country in 24 flying schools and in a number of ground schools. Their final training will be on foreign soil.

A great number of American aviators have been sent abroad, where they are now undergoing intensive training behind several of the battle fronts.

More than 30 Entente air experts are in this country, composing what may be called an international aviation general staff in connection with the development of American great military aerial force.

When the first American military airplane is sent to Europe, and Secretary Baker says this will be done within reasonable time, it will be of American manufacture from the tip of its propellers to the engine, machine gun and camera.

These are some of the facts that stand out in a statement issued today by Secretary of War Baker summarizing, as far as it can now be done without giving away military secrets, the progress thus far made with the aviation program adopted under the $640,000,000 appropriation.

The secretary's statement says: "Every measure of insurance has been taken that the American forces in France shall be amply equipped with aircraft."

"Within a reasonable time, considering the period of preparation, this country will send its first airplane to Europe. This airplane, from the tip of its propellers to the engine, machine gun and camera, will have been made in the United States."

"The United States today is in practical control of many of the materials required for the manufacture of aircraft, both for this government and its allies. Steps have been taken for the conservation and distribution of such materials and the great resources of this country."

"Under the direction of the aircraft production board there is being accomplished an international standardization in the tests of materials and their specifications, so that through a unification of the demands upon this country there may be full utility of our resources."

NEURO IS ARRESTED

WHY DOES A BANK GROW?

Banker Tells Why the Bank Grows; Says People are Prosperous.

The growth of The Citizens National Bank of Conneltsville has been so satisfactory, that it has attracted considerable attention. James L. Kurtz, Cashier, explains why the bank has grown to over a Million Dollars.

"The people are prosperous," he says, "and the Bank has enjoyed the confidence and esteem of the people. It was only natural that the people should deposit their money, when they were prosperous, with the Bank that they trusted, when times were less promising than the present."

The Citizens National Bank is at 128 Pittsburg street.—Adv.

"BOYS WANT IT AT BARRACKS," AVERS MARINE

Had Contracted Malaria at Vera Cruz—Tanlac Fixed Him Up.

"Boys want it," declared William Hewitt, U. S. Marine, Philadelphia Navy Yard, recently.

"Tanlac won the boys at the barracks because they know how it pulled me through," he continued.

"When I got to New Orleans from Vera Cruz my system was filled with tropical malaria. I was only a shadow of myself. My appetite was gone, and I had headache and backache; was pale as a ghost. Some said I had anemia—blood turning to water. I'd feel a little better one day and the next worse than ever. Just up and down. Malaria poison sapped all my strength. I was so weak I staggered."

"I got a big surprise—found Tanlac. That got me, for a comrade urged me to try it at New Orleans. Now, I was good and ready."

"A man's appetite surely ruins his health. I couldn't get enough to eat. That broke the sick spell. I could see myself 'picking up,' and the color coming back into my face. Tanlac made my system so strong it threw off the malaria, and now my health's as good as the day I enlisted in the U. S. Navy. Isn't that saying something?"

Tanlac is sold here by the Conneltsville Drug Co.

Tanlac can also be secured in Dunbar at D. C. Lason's Drug Store.—Adv.

It's Got Z-Z-ZIP!

LIKE a shot-out-of-a-gun, Atlantic Gasoline sends you breezing along the straightaways or thundering up the steepest grades with that calm confidence of a Hercules, conscious of his terrible might, attemperable with super-strength.

Here's the go-getter gas if ever there was one. It's got zip and zing and eat-'em-up in its veins. Like a Dan Patch tugging at the traces, your Atlantic-fed motor itches for the getaway, and when you step on the pedal—Say! It's good that cars are provided with brakes!

Uncle Sam says the way to test gasoline is by its "boiling point." Atlantic has steadfastly maintained its uniform boiling point in the face of changing market conditions. This assures every gallon of gas to be exactly like the last, sparing you the bother of monkeying with the carburetor every so often.

Take figures from your gasoline-bill and put them on your speedometer where they belong. Use Atlantic Gasoline regularly. It's got z-z-zip!

Father Lambing Admonishes Everson Men to Lead Good Lives.

BANQUET HELD IN TYRONE HALL

Scottdale Plans Monster Farewell For Her Sons Who Leave to Join the National Army on Sunday; Draftees to Entertain in the Pipe Mill Yard.

Special to The Courier.

SCOTSDALE, Oct. 5.—The enthusiasm shown by Everson residents last evening when the men who will leave Saturday evening to make up the National Army were bannanted, went to show that Everson is proud of her boy who will fight for their country. Tyrone hall was crowded. The National Army men were seated to gether so that they could be recognized. The program was presided over by John R. Byrne, the chairman, and Rev. G. R. Alban, pastor of the United Brethren church in Everson, said grace. Mr. Byrne called on Father Lipsky, rector of St. Joseph's church, and he made a stirring address. George Hughes then sang "I don't Know Where I'm Going But I'm on My Way." Adjutant Harvey Luker, 4 Colonel Ellsworth Post, C. A. R., made a short address and Miss Florence Copley sang. Rev. M. A. Lambing, rector of St. John's church, then made an address that brought the men to feel the responsibility that rests on them. He first told of the moral influence of our great United States, how she has done more in the past six months for her men than other countries have done in a century. He then asked himself the question, "When Will the War End?" and answered by saying that it would end when God has sufficiently chastised the world.

"Whether a young man is a Catholic or a Protestant makes no difference," he said, "they must live up to their religion whatever it is and put their faith in God." He stated that this nation is a Christian nation, if it was not why would you find three ministers in a gathering of this kind. Father Lambing advised every boy to take with him a new testament and read often that chapter describing how the Savior died in the garden of Gethsemane, and of the agony that he suffered.

The audience sang "America" and Chairman John R. Byrne thanked the ladies who prepared and served the banquet given the boys.

Each lady working at the Tyrone hall wore a red, white and blue hat. The men who will go from this district on Saturday are: Everson, Stephen Plets, Clyde Miller, Anthony Orish, Andy Szalankiewicz, John Presto, Karoline Krolowski, Wilber Pzenbaker, Stanley Mamala, Antonio Tiano, Charles Szymanski, Charles Michalski, Mike Lucia and Antonio Amoroso.

Kiefertown: Antonio Casini, Alphonso Gioia, Francesco Zussino, Eugenio Rossi.

Owensdale: James Burke, C. Dubois and Frank Martinowsky.

They will leave Everson on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock when the Everson people will be out to give them a rousing farewell. The local firemen have been asked to be an escort, one man for each man in the National Army. An effort is being made to have the West Penn run a special car or two on Saturday at this time to take the crowd to Connelville to see the men off.

Practically every citizen in Scottdale is planning to come out on Sunday afternoon and show the draftees what a real Scottdale farewell is. The parade will start at 2 o'clock and the route will be down Marl street to Broadway, out Broadway to Pittsburgh and Pittsburgh to Chestnut street to Louisa park where addresses will be made and a musical program carried out. At last night's meeting of the committees in the Peterson Business college rooms, every committee reported progress. The finance committee stated that money enough had been raised to have a box packed for every drafted man and these will be handed to the men as they entrain. The local restaurants have taken the order for the filling of the boxes. The matter of having the draftees' train run into the Pipe Mill yards is almost assured and the boys will entertain here from 5:30 to 6:00 o'clock. W. A. Griffith of Pittsburgh will be the leading speaker of the day. This promises to be a red letter day in Scottdale.

Special Services. There will be special services at the Trinity Reformed church next Sunday morning beginning at 9:30 o'clock when the Sunday school will hold a Grand Rally Day service. There

TRACE DISEASE TO CONSTIPATION

One of the points on which different schools of medicine practically agree is that about 85% of all human diseases are directly traceable to intestinal putrefaction of stomach waste due to inactivity of the bowels, or constipation. The eliminative process is an essential factor in digestion and on its proper functioning depends the welfare of the entire system.

Constipation is a condition that should never be neglected. As soon as the bowels evidence the slightest disposition to slow up, a mild laxative should be taken. The combination of simple laxative with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and sold in drug stores for fifty cents a bottle, is highly recommended as a corrective, acting gently, in a easy, natural way, without griping or other pain or discomfort. A trial bottle of this excellent family remedy, free of charge, by writing to Dr. J. C. Caldwell, 1235 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

Don't Dose the Stomach

Prevent Catarrh by Nature's Own Method—Every Breath of Hyomel Brings Relief.

Nearly everyone who has catarrh, knows how foolish it is to try and cure it by dosing the stomach. Temporary relief may be given, but a cure seldom comes.

Until recently your physician would have said the only way to cure catarrh would be a change of climate; but now with Hyomel you can carry a health-giving climate in your vest pocket and by breathing it a few minutes four times a day, treat yourself successfully.

The complete Hyomel outfit costs but little and consists of an Inhaler that can be carried in the vest pocket, a medicine dropper and a bottle of Hyomel. The Inhaler lasts a lifetime, and if one bottle is not enough, an extra bottle of Hyomel can be obtained for a small sum. It is the most economical of all remedies advertised for catarrh, and is the only one that follows nature in her method of treating diseases of the respiratory organs.

Remember, that if Hyomel does not help you, A. C. Clark will refund your money.—Adv.

The DEEP SEA PERIL

by VICTOR ROUSSEAU

© BY M. G. CHAPMAN

Suddenly the boat began to tilt upward at the bow. Donald heard the scraping of the flippers against the stern. Then, as if a heavy dog had scrambled in, the boat tipped high into the air and righted itself. Another of the monsters had gained entrance.

Donald seized the oar and brought it down upon the beast's head. The oar splintered; he heard the cracking of bone, and a splash followed.

The edge of the boat was dragged beneath the waves. It filled and overturned. Donald found himself struggling to save Ida in the sea of jelly that sucked him down. Somehow he caught her and dragged himself to the keel. He shouted, and the brutes scurried away, leaping and falling with resounding splashes, like sharks at play.

Donald felt Ida's arms seek his neck. She turned to him instinctively, not as her rescuer alone, but as her lover.

He filled his lungs and shouted.

To his amazement he heard an answering shout. He strained his eyes through the darkness. Surely that was a human cry! He shouted again, and the answer came once more; and there was no longer any doubt.

The conning tower of the Fair came drifting out of the night. She ran awash, with hatches open, and Davies was standing on the deck among a group of sailors.

"Where are you?" he shouted.

"Here!" Donald cried. "Reverse engines, Davies! Coming aboard!"

The engines stopped and the submarine grazed the sides of the overturned boat. Donald grasped Ida in his arms and clambered to the deck. And Donald found himself shaking a man's hand as if he were his brother, instead of merely Sam Clouts, able seaman in the navy, trying to keep his hands from straying toward his mouth organ.

"We were trying to make Fair Island when we spotted you, sir," said Davies. "I thought we'd pick you up in the morning when the fog cleared. It's been hard work making anywhere. There's something the matter with the sea."

"How, Davies?"

"We're only able to make a knot and a half, sir. It isn't the engines. At least there doesn't seem to be anything the matter with them. It's as if the sea's well, turned to jelly, or molasses, sir. Perhaps you noticed it. I've never seen anything like it in my experience," continued the little middy, whose experience of the high seas was limited to a couple of short cruises on a training ship, and one on a transport.

"Clap on the hatches and make full speed for Fair Island," ordered Donald.

CHAPTER VI.

The Siege of the Submarine.

"I'm positive it's the water, sir," said Davies. "We've tried running submerged, and the electric engines won't drive her any faster than the petrol ones. It's like running a locomotive on greasy rails."

"It's plankton," answered Donald. "Marine organisms, you know."

He was standing beside Davies in the conning tower. Ida had been taken below and placed in Donald's cabin. She had been hardly conscious since her rescue; she was too numbed from exposure to realize what had occurred, and she had fallen asleep immediately.

At Fair Island, which was an untroubled, cavernous rock, Donald expected to find the oil-ship, from which his stores were to be replenished. Then he was to patrol the northern area of the North sea with the aid of the airplane. A stock of supplies in the shape of food was also expected at the island.

But now Donald was wondering whether it was not his duty to return to the mainland to report the destruction of the enemy cruiser. Of course the officers of the flying corps who would be with the airplane could undertake this duty. But then there was Ida. And there was the swarm of devil men that had appeared.

How could he tell the navy department of this without being relieved of his command? But how could he fail to tell them?

Donald looked keenly at Davies. He was a nice little chap, disciplined, clean, alert, the head-and-neck of a naval officer in embryo. What he liked best about the little middy was his resolution; he knew that Davies would never hesitate to take responsibility whenever he thought his duty required a prompt decision.

Donald could have no better confidant. And he needed one as sorely as Masterman had done.

"Davies," he said, "I'm going to tell you something. It's not the engines, but it isn't altogether the water either. The plankton wouldn't stop us. And it's too fine to clog the machinery. Something is trying to push us back, Davies."

"I beg your pardon, sir?"

"I was warned about it before I left New York," continued Donald. "What I'm going to tell you will sound incredible, but it happens to be true. You know, Davies, our ancestors were marine creatures?"

"I thought they were monkeys, sir. At least, a long time ago."

"Long before they were monkeys, Davies. At least, they first lived in the sea. And we became monkeys afterward, and then men."

"Yes, sir. I was going to say that the electric engines show signs of developing—"

"One moment, please, Davies. There's another swarm of deep-sea men coming to overrun the earth. Masterman told me—you've heard of Masterman, the marine explorer? He told me he'd seen them—no, 'felt' them—before he died. I felt them today. They attacked and upset us."

"Excuse me, sir," said Davies, "but wouldn't you like to lie down? I can take the Fair to the island, sir, and we'll call you when we are at anchor."

"Please listen to me, Davies. They are invisible, these monsters, all except the eyes, which look like currants. When they die the albuminous parts of the body harden, producing a milky opacity. They look then something like hairless monsters. And they're trying to stop the submarine from making Fair Island. Just as they tried to draw the boat there. They—"

He broke off, appalled by the middy's polite, respectful stare. Donald had not imagined that the story would sound so grotesque. He hardly believed now that he could make Davies realize its truth.

"I'm sorry to hear about them, sir," said Davies. "What do you wish me to do?"

"Keep the hatches closed," said Donald. "We are taking a risk not submerged, but we have got to make Fair Island. If they get aboard, it will be a fight to the death. Happily, it isn't hard to kill them, only we can't see them. They are quite invisible, remember. I killed two of them. Better serve out cutlasses—"

"We won't stand for any nonsense from them, sir," answered the middy. "Excuse me, sir, while I call Clouts to take the lookout." He moved toward the entrance.

In a few moments Sam Clouts came in. He saluted, but instead of taking his post at the observation port, he remained standing in front of Donald.

"Wouldn't you like to lie down below, sir?" he asked.

"What's that?" demanded Donald. "What do you mean, Clouts?"

"Excuse me, sir, but I think a rest would do you good," said the sailor. "Get to your post!" said Donald sharply.

"But, really, sir—"

"Is this insubordination, Clouts?"

"No, sir. But it would be best for you to rest, sir," persisted Clouts. Davies reappeared at the door.

"He's quite right, sir," he said. "He's acting under my orders. You need to rest for a while."

Donald suddenly began to understand.

"Davies, do you imagine that I am crazy?" he cried. "Why, that's what they told Masterman!"

"I think, sir, you ought to rest," said Davies. "Meanwhile I am assuming command."

"If I have you court-martialed, Davies!" cried Donald angrily.

"I'll face that, sir," returned the little middy. "You see, sir, it amounts to this: I have only spoken to Clouts so far. It would be better to lie down quietly than to have the rest of the men know about this. It would be very prejudicial to discipline, sir. And in the morning, when you feel different, I shall resign the command to you again."

Donald began to realize the impossibility of convincing Davies. The middy evidently believed that his exposure in the boat had turned his brain. It was useless to attempt to argue. Of course he ought never to have spoken about the monsters, but they had been so real, so recent in his mind. However—

"Davies, you may take command until morning," said Donald. "Only remember my warning about the hatches."

He turned toward the door. Davies saluted him. Sam Clouts accompanied him to his cabin below.

"We put the lady in here, sir," he said, pausing in front of the door.

DRUGGIST MYERS WRITES FROM A FULL KNOWLEDGE

Has Sold Thousands of Bottles of Nerv-Worth—Customers Tell of "Marvelous" Results.

A Fretful-Baby Story That Every Mother Should Profit By.

The merchant referred to is Mr. E. C. Myers, of Washington, Pa., a man of the highest standing in that city and in the trade which has been the vehicle of his success. In response to a request for a statement of his experience as a Nerv-Worth dealer Mr. Myers wrote the following striking letter:

Washington, Pa., Aug. 25, 1917. Nerv-Worth Company, Zanesville, Ohio.

Gentlemen—Never during my 22 years in the drug business have I handled or sold a medicine which has proven as satisfactory as Nerv-Worth. Some of the reports I get from persons who have used it are marvelous. I have seen it used after years of doctoring, and even after patients have been forced to bed, with better results than anything previously used. Have known it being given to young babies for colic and other stomach and bowel troubles with perfect results. To cite one instance:

A baby, 16 months old, would sleep during the day and sleep awake during the night. This continued for some time and the parents were nearly exhausted. It also had considerable trouble with its stomach and bowels and was cross most of the time. The family physician was appealed to but without any satisfactory result. One night the mother gave it a dose of Nerv-Worth and in a few minutes baby was asleep and slept well the entire night. This was repeated each night and in a few nights baby came to know the Nerv-Worth bottle, would take it in its arms after getting the dose, and go to sleep. The child improved in every way. Slept better, had no digestive or bowel trouble and became very happy and contented. Its parents are very grateful for Nerv-Worth, but are too conservative to give a statement.

The fact, too, that I have sold over 5200 bottles in a little over a year is pretty conclusive evidence of the merits of Nerv-Worth, for persons who have used it would not recommend it to others if it had not given satisfactory results.

Yours truly, E. C. MYERS.

FLIRTING WITH DEATH—A five part Bluebird attraction in which Herbert Rawlinson and Browne Vernon appear as joint stars, is being shown today. Mr. Rawlinson appears as a soldier of fortune who has ventured into the circus business to establish a bankroll and in his pursuit of the nimble dollar he finally is forced to negotiate a sensational airship flight and parachute drop to "put across" a deal that assures his fortunes in the hand of his beloved. Two reels of circus scenes, taken while a touring show was halted in transit, reflect the life and daily adventure of showmen in actual scenes. "Flirting With Death," it is declared, reflects real circus life and depicts the real character of showmen besides offering a fetching love theme and sprinkling excitement through many thrilling, thrills and sensational episodes. A comedy is included. Tomorrow Bessie Love will appear in "Polly Ann," a five part Triangle feature. Monday Harold Lockwood and May Allison will be seen in "The Promise."

With a show that is uniformly good Zarrow's Zigzag Town Girls, headed by Jack Fugay continues to please nice audiences at the Arcade. With a company of artists, new jokes and gorgeous costumes, Mr. Zarrow's show is a riot of fun, a feast of music and a bevy of feminine beauty. The bill for today and tomorrow is "The Irish Angel," a farce comedy with music, the central characters of which are an Irishman and a colored porter. It contains many new song numbers including "How Can a Good Girl Be a Good Little Girl," "Look Out Mountain," "Cherry Blossom Time," "Just As Your Mother Was," "Your Country Needs You," and "In-anna." Harold Gille and Helen Smith will do an entirely new specialty. Like all the bills presented by Mr. Zarrow's companies, every detail is perfect, the book, if not original, is a clever adaptation of a theme that is not worked to a frazzle. Of course you have heard singing trios, but the Zigzag Town Trio which has been making such a big hit all week, they offer it in a unique way. The comedy element is strong throughout the show and it has the pep and go to it. The Arcade has booked several famous pictures including Helen Holmes in the "Railroad Raiders," which will begin next Monday and Tuesday, and Vitaphone's new picture, "The Fighting Trail."

SLABMEN BIG GUNS IN WORLDS' SERIES BATTLES

How Giant and White Sox Battermen Who Will De Twirling Compare.

CICOTTE AND SCHUPP LEAD

Sox Star Has Bewildering Array of Weird Curves and Uses Famous "Shine Ball" National's First String Hurlers Are Southerners.

(Correspondence of Associated Press.) NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—No single factor has a greater bearing upon the outcome of a World Series than the pitching staff of the two teams involved. This is an accepted axiom of professional baseball which is particularly true of the two clubs which are scheduled to begin their battle for the premier honors of the diamond at Chicago on Saturday.

While neither the New York Nationals nor the Chicago Americans could equal the machine-like perfection in balance and play which has distinguished several preceding combinations in the series, they are, nevertheless, strong aggregations which appear to be evenly matched. Under these circumstances any edge of advantage which may develop is likely to appear in the work of the hurling forces.

So far as numerical strength is concerned there is little if any edge, both the White Sox and the Giants have seven hurlers who have worked in the box with reasonable frequency during the season. The records show that manager Rowland sent 14 hurlers into 45 games; Cicotte into 41; Faber, 35; R. A. C. 34; Williams, 31; Benz, 17 and Scott, 11. Williams, although rated as a pitcher has done but little work on the mound against opposing teams having been used to pitch to his team mates during practice.

For the New York Nationals Demaree has figured in 34 games, including his Chicago National 1917 record; Anderson 33; Schupp 22; Peritt 21; Sallee 20; Benton and Terau 20 each. It will be seen from the foregoing figures that the Giants have shifted their hurlers more frequently than the White Sox, but the results do not appear to indicate that this had any outstanding effect upon their winning ability. In the matter of right and left hand twirlers the situation is again a sale, for each club carries and uses four right hand delivery boxmen and three lefties or southpaw pitchers. How these right and left handers will fare against opposing bat wielders is problematical. Eddie Collins, Weaver and Jackson have all shown ability to hit portside pitching which they and other members of the White Sox team are likely to face in a majority of the games if McGraw's plans do not miscarry. Felisch is another Chicago player who have shown that left handers have no terrors for him. The team batting average against portside hurling is close to .250 which appears to give them an advantage over the Giants in this respect.

The New York players, however, believe that they will face Cicotte and Faber, both right handers, more frequently than the White Sox southpaws. For this reason they are particularly interested in the delivery of these two pitchers, especially the so-called "shine ball" of Cicotte. There is a wide difference of opinion among even the American League batters regarding the methods or means by which Cicotte gets the weird curves and breaks which has made his delivery so effective this season. It is certain that the Giants will scrutinize both the ball and breaks with extraordinary care in the coming contests. "Faber's" "moist ball" delivery is also certain to bother the New York batters, especially if the pitcher can maintain control. Russell and Danforth are the formidable left handers likely to be used against the McGrawites. "The Giant's" strongest box quartet will probably be composed of Sallee, Peritt and Benton all left handers, and Schupp and Anderson all right handers.
